ADDENDA.

FRENCH-AMERICAN COLONIAL JETONS, RARE ANCIENT COINS, ETC.

The following series of the French-American Colonial jetons, is the finest and most complete as yet offered at auction in the United States. It will be observed that, unlike the lot offered in my former sale and those of Prof. Anthon's cabinet, which were all stamped on edge to signify that they were restrikes, one only of the present is thus stamped; besides this, we have here six entirely different obverses, and as only one obverse die has been preserved at the French mint, and that condemned on account of its damaged condition, it follows that seven of the eight jetons herewith offered must be originals. They are sold as such under positive guarantee, the right being reserved of selling together or singly, at the option of the cataloguer.

Mr Ed. Frossard begs to announce that he is preparing the Catalogue of a Splendid Collection of

ORIENTAL COINS.

(Except Chinese)

TO BE SOLD BY AUCTION WITHOUT RESERVE BY

MESSRS. GEORGE A. LEAVITT & CO.,

IN THEIR NEW AND SPACIOUS SALESROOMS,

787 & 789 BROADWAY, NEW YORK,

On or about June 26, 1885.

The varieties of material, form, and type of the Old Native Coinages of Oriental Nations are simply amazing, and form one of the most important, attractive, and instructive departments in the entire field of Numismatics. The compiler of the Catalogue, therefore, hopes to receive from dealers and collectors the attention and support which a collection of this description specially deserves. To further enhance the interest of the Sale, an edition with several heliotype plates, illustrating the principal coins or types, will be issued, and the descriptions will be so full as to make the Catalogue a work of easy reference to the large class of American Collectors who have not the time or opportunity of consulting the many works on the subject published in Foreign languages.

Orders for the ordinary and illustrated edition of the Catalogue, and for the sale, will be executed by Coin dealers generally, and by the undersigned,

ED. FROSSARD,

Irvington-on-Hudson,

Or 787 & 789 Broadway, New York
